

REVOLUTION TRIUMPHANT

Republic Proclaimed at Selva
Braga and Coimbra,
Portugal.

STRUGGLE IS NEARING END

New Government Is Now Engaged In Work of Re-establishing Order.

British Minister at Lisbon Says There Seems to be No Reason to Fear
Further Violence.

Lisbon, Oct. 6.—It is reported here to-day that the royal family, who fled from the capital at the outbreak of the revolution are on board the imperial yacht Queen Amelle and are on their way to the English coast.

The dowager queen, Maria Pia, will later go to Italy, where the royal palace at Moncalieri has been placed at her disposal by her sister, Princess Premier Telxreira De Sousa and Manuel Fratel, the minister of justice, have relinquished the direction of affairs of state to Provisional President Theophilus Braga and his assistants in the new republican government.

Last night attacks were made by revolutionists upon the houses of prominent royalists, including J. L. Luciani De Castro, former premier and leader of the progressives, but representatives of the provisional government soon

It is reported from Setubala on the southeast of Lisbon, that the Eleventh Infantry regiment has acclaimed the proclamation of the republic. The British cruiser Newcastle, anchored off Lisbon, fired the usual salute this evening. The vessel did not salute when

King Manuel of Portugal is today an exile from his capital which remains for the moment, at least, in the undisputed control of the revolutionists. Public order has been restored at Lisbon and the populace are peacefully

This much is known from the few cable dispatches which the censor has permitted to appear, which the censor

Of other events throughout Portugal little definite has been learned. Intense interest centers in the whereabouts of King Manuel and in the question whether the republic will endure. His majesty is variously reported at Cintra, at Caxias and on board the royal yacht Queen Amelia bound for the protecting shores of England. It is certain that the queen mother, Amelia and the king's grandmother, the dowager empress, Maria Pia, are on this vessel en route for Gibraltar.

the provinces is severed and the attitude of the people in the country is in doubt. There are rumors of loyalist forces moving on the capital and threatening civil war. These cannot be confirmed but the loyalists are said to cherish the hope that an uprising in the country districts will restore the

BRITISH AMBASSADOR SAYS NOTHING TO FEAR

London, Oct. 6.—Sir Villiers, British minister at Lisbon telegraphed the foreign office early today that the Republican revolution apparently had been accomplished and there seemed to be no reason to fear further violence. The minister states that the whereabouts of King Manuel are unknown to him but he is assured that the king is safe. Is not, the minister adds, on a British ship.

A special dispatch from Lisbon says the fighting in that city lasted 40 hours, both parties showing extraordinary courage. There were many casualties before the monarchists finally joined the winning side.

The correspondent says the enthusiasm of the people was undiminished. The citizens are fraternizing

REPUBLIC PROCLAIMED IN VARIOUS CITIES

Advices from the Portuguese capital, the authenticity of which can be safely assumed, are meager. The report of continued fighting however, is from a news source and May have es-

Practically all of the dispatches from Lisbon last night conveyed the impression that the revolutionists were in complete control and the populace had accepted the republic as an accomplished fact.

strict censorship over outgoing dispatches previous to the outbreak of the revolution, the revolutionists being in control of telegraph and cable wires, are now in a position to dictate what of the present situation shall be made known to the outside world. Accordingly further advices that may

One report which came today by way of Viro, declared that troops faithful to the king still held important points last evening and that continued fighting during the night was expected. It was admitted, however, the Repub-

This dispatch said a moderate estimate of the losses on both sides was 200 dead and 450 wounded. The city was but slightly damaged by the bombardment.

frantic enthusiasm. Bands paraded the streets, followed by columns of armed persons who sang songs of liberty. The discipline of the revolutionists was excellent. King Manuel, it is said, left the city probably aboard the

(Continued on page eleven.)